FIFA (Fédération Internationale de Football Association) is the governing body of football around the globe, and FIFA 22 is the FIFA version on the PlayStation®4. It's the FIFA edition of football's most popular series, which has sold over 300 million units since its debut in 1992, is played in over 200 countries and territories, and was recognized by more than half a billion players. What kind of player is made in FIFA? Your FIFA player is made by adapting your real-life skills and strengths to the game while offering you highly refined tactical skills. What kinds of players are there? The different gameplay modes in FIFA 22 cover a variety of skill levels and abilities, so make sure to experiment with each of the game modes and see how your player evolves. • Q1 mode: Rush In Q1 mode you can rush, helping players try to be one of the first on the ball to secure a goal. The goal is to use quick control techniques and precise passes to score a goal. • Q2 mode: Pro League This mode is all about dominance. As the title suggests, you are playing in the biggest top-tier professional leagues, including the likes of Premier League, La Liga, and Bundesliga. Here you must play well to avoid relegation or be promoted. • Q3 mode: Friendlies With this mode, you get to play in friendlies, which are official international matches. You can play either against the AI in single games, or in special tournaments with your friends. • Q4 mode: Online & Career For each of the game modes, you can experience all four or five editions of the annual FIFA calendar. The modes available vary depending on which year you're playing in. In Career mode, players progress naturally through seasons and can take coaching or manage players' attributes. Players can also select "historic players" to carry their legacy into future editions of the game. How do I choose my players? There are three paths you can take when it comes to choosing your team: the standard way, with the Pick-a-play engine; the Standard-only way, based on a predefined squad; or the Custom way, allowing you to redefine your team every single time. How can I influence the team? Give your team more resources, like experience and coins, through match results, bc9d6d6daa
